Handbook of Sociological Science

Contributions to Rigorous Sociology

Edited by Klarita Gërzhani, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam, the Netherlands, Nan Dirk de Graaf, University of Oxford, UK and Werner Raub, Utrecht University, the Netherlands

'This is an ambitious, comprehensive, and much-needed Handbook that aims to bring back rigor to the current practice of sociology. The emphasis is on rigor, not old battles of theory versus empiricism or quantitative versus qualitative research. I recommend it to anyone who wishes to conduct or understand sociological research.'

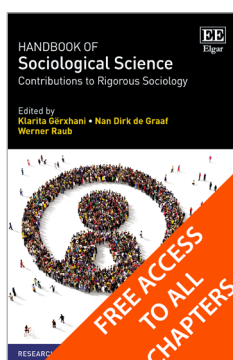

– Yu Xie, Bert G. Kerstetter '66 University Professor of Sociology, Princeton University and Visiting Chair Professor of Center for Social Research, Peking University

Research Handbook on the Sociology of Globalization

Edited by Christian Karner, University of Lincoln, UK and Dirk Hofäcker, University of Duisburg-Essen, Germany

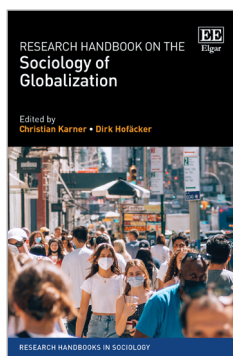

'This Research Handbook dynamically energizes the discipline of sociology while enriching our understanding of the global. The volume opens up discussion of globalization as a study of structured relationships, interactions and interdependencies between people, from the everyday life of individuals to the macro level. Highly recommended to anyone interested in this global reality in which we all somehow live.'

Understanding Society and Knowledge

Nico Stehr, Zeppelin University, Germany and University of Alberta, Canada

'In his new book well known sociologist Nico Stehr draws on several decades of research on the thesis that we live in a knowledge society.'

– Richard Swedberg, Cornell University, US

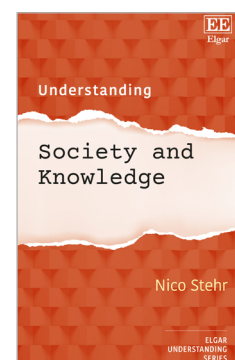

'Nico Stehr's Understanding Society and Knowledge is the sort of book on the sociology of knowledge that Max Weber might have written, had he lived another hundred years. Stehr mirrors and updates Weber's facility with the relevant literatures in law, politics and economics – as well as sociology – all brought together in aid of a higher-order social scientific understanding of the nature of knowledge.'

– Steve Fuller, Auguste Comte Chair of Social Epistemology, University of Warwick, UK

Social Justice in a Turbulent Era

Edited by Gary Craig, University of Newcastle upon Tyne, UK

'Invaluable and timely research exposing the global drift of authoritarian politics of austerity, greed and hate by re-engaging with the social justice values of fairness, equality and inclusion to inform centrist and alternative left-of-centre strategies. The globally-sourced case studies analyse the continuing crises of economic neoliberalism, embedded racism and entrenched poverty which have been exacerbated by Covid-19 and climate change. The reader is left to consider how the challenge facing progressive civil society is moving beyond the politics of disparate social movements towards combined action directed at public policy respecting a common humanity.'

Welfare States in a Turbulent Era

Edited by Bent Greve, Roskilde University, Denmark

'In uncertain and turbulent times, a concise and encompassing introduction to emerging and challenging themes is a welcome contribution to the fast-changing landscape of (Western) welfare studies. The authors disentangle the complexity behind the issues and provide the reader with an insight of what is ultimately at stake.'

A Research Agenda for Public Attitudes to Welfare

Edited by Femke Roosma, Tilburg University, the Netherlands and Tijs Laenen, KU Leuven, Belgium and Tilburg University, the Netherlands

'This timely overview of the field points to the wealth of new data-sources and new methods in welfare state attitude research. It makes the case for new applications to consider a broader range of policies and issues, for the expansion of theoretical and explanatory work and identification of the attitudinal triggers which contribute to attitude change and perhaps to a more generous welfare state politics.'

Handbook on Social Protection and Social Development in the Global South

Edited by Leila Patel, Sophie Plagerson, University of Johannesburg, South Africa and Isaac Chinyoka, University of Johannesburg, South Africa and University of Denver, US

'This Handbook is a very important contribution to further our collective understanding of social protection. Showcasing how countries, including in low-income settings, have prioritized investments and followed differentiated pathways towards the realization of the right to social protection, it reaffirms the importance of context-specific processes, political economy dynamics and innovation. And precisely because of these differentiated pathways, social protection continues to demonstrate its central role for children's wellbeing, elimination of multidimensional child poverty, enhancing equity, preparedness and social cohesion, and critically, accelerating human development results across the life cycle in times of crises, recovery and peace.'

The Future of Social Care

From Problem to Rights-Based Sustainable Solution

Peter Beresford, University of East Anglia, UK and Colin Slasberg, Independent Researcher and Consultant in Social Care, UK

'This book is exactly what is needed now. Government and professionals alike are deeply struggling with the complex social care crisis. I know, I sit on the House of Lord's Adult Social Care Select Committee. We are all grappling with how to draft recommendations which will have any likelihood of being implemented. The book explains the type of reforms necessary, so the system works for all. The proposals which reconcile the human and financial imperatives, offer us a real opportunity to recognise and grasp the social care nettle, once and for all!'

Critical Geographies of Resistance

Edited by Sarah M. Hughes, Northumbria University, UK

'Sarah Hughes and contributors challenge geographers to think of resistance as emergent, often quotidian, and diffuse. Arguing against intentionality as necessary for resistance, Hughes et al. offer a thought-provoking argument and range of cases to illustrate that geographical attention to resistance may identify nascent political claims and alternative spaces.'

Political Change through Social Innovation

A Debate

Frank Moulaert, KU Leuven, Belgium, Bob Jessop, Lancaster University, Erik Swyngedouw, University of Manchester, UK, Liana Simmons, Political Scientist, Food Activist, Italy and Pieter Van den Broeck, KU Leuven, Belgium

'This thought-provoking volume sits at the nexus of social innovation and democratic political theory and practice. Leading international scholars compare and confront different approaches to nurturing emancipatory social change in a world increasingly encountering populist politics and ruptures to "democratic" systems. It provides a valuable landmark for anyone interested in solidarity-based social relations and the potential for social political change.'

Fixing Prices

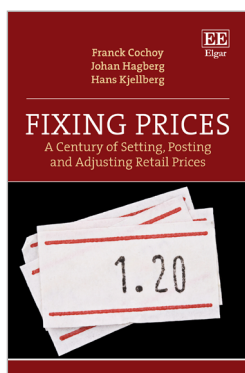

A Century of Setting, Posting and Adjusting Retail Prices

Franck Cochoy, University of Toulouse
Jean Jaurès and Institut Universitaire de France, France, Johan Hagberg, University of Gothenburg and Hans Kjellberg,
Stockholm School of Economics, Sweden

'Fixing Prices reveals how retail shopping was transformed by the posting of prices through the invention of new techniques and technology. The book delightfully captures how these innovations had to be learned by store owners, sold to customers, and created new and unforeseen opportunities. We now take these innovations for granted but as the authors suggest, they continue in the digital age to evolve in startling ways.'

Building the Post-Pandemic University

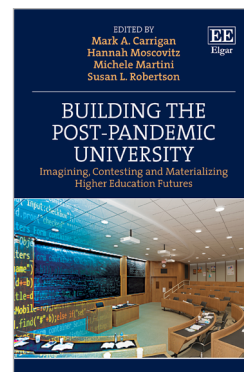

Imagining, Contesting and Materializing Higher Education Futures

Edited by Mark A. Carrigan, University of Manchester, UK, Hannah Moscovitz,
Aarhus University, Denmark, Michele
Martini, University of Lugano, Switzerland and Susan L. Robertson, University of Cambridge, UK

'This book is as important as it is timely. For higher education sectors to move forwards – and take their workforces along with them – the contours and legacies of the pandemic need to be much better understood. The contributors to this sensitively curated volume bring insight and evidence about what really happened to higher learning during Covid. The collection is more than the sum of its chapters; it goes beyond critique to offer a shared blueprint for what might come next. The neoliberal university embraces individualism and entrepreneurialism in the name of competition; this collection prompts us to advocate for a new settlement based on fairer and more humane values.'

How to Engage Policy Makers with Your Research

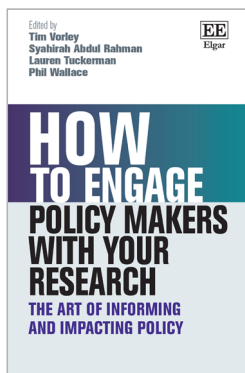

The Art of Informing and Impacting Policy

Edited by Tim Vorley, Syahirah Abdul Rahman and Lauren Tuckerman, Oxford Brookes University, UK and Phil Wallace, University of Manchester, UK

'There is a growing interest in improving academic policy engagement in the UK and internationally. However, we still have a lot to learn about how to do this work better. This book provides a novel contribution, with authors drawn from UK government, parliament, research funders and academia. It focuses on three key areas: how academics articulate the value and relevance of research to policy, the different ways in which academic-policy engagement occur and how research impacts upon policy. The contributors bring a vast amount of experience to bear on these topics and as such help to move forward our thinking on how academic-policy engagement might help to promote the use of research to support policy making.'
