NEW RELEASES THIS QUARTER

Research Handbook on Law, Movements and Social Change

Edited by Steven A. Boutcher, Law and Society Association, Corey S. Shdaimah, University of Maryland and Michael W. Yarbrough, John Jay College of Criminal Justice, US

'This Handbook revisits and reinvigorates the law and social movements literature. Chapters connect old debates on law's mobilization in power disputes with new developments in social thought, political organization, and the geopolitics of knowledge. Amid the end of the liberal-democratic consensus and growing skepticism of law, it sets a new research agenda for socio legal scholars and offers valuable insights for practitioners and activists who will not give up on change.'

Entrepreneurial Financial Resilience and Financial Innovation in a Turbulent Era

Edited by Javed G. Hussain, Birmingham City University, Samuel Salia, De Montfort University, UK and Jonathan M. Scott, University of Waikato, New Zealand

'The editors have assembled a distinguished and diverse collection of contributors who are able to offer real insights into the marketplace for entrepreneurial finance. Although these marketplaces differ massively between countries, they are united in the common theme that participants lack power. They are constantly subject to shocks from which some, but not all, survive. Who does, who does not, and why, are therefore key questions addressed in the volume.'

Fixing Prices

A Century of Setting, Posting and Adjusting Retail Prices

Franck Cochoy, University of Toulouse Jean Jaurès and Institut Universitaire de France, France, Johan Hagberg, University of Gothenburg and Hans Kjellberg, Stockholm School of Economics, Sweden

'Fixing Prices reveals how retail shopping was transformed by the posting of prices through the invention of new techniques and technology. The book delightfully captures how these innovations had to be learned by store owners, sold to customers, and created new and unforeseen opportunities. We now take these innovations for granted but as the authors suggest, they continue in the digital age to evolve in startling ways.'

A Research Agenda for Austrian Economics

Edited by Steven Horwitz, Ball State University and Louis Rouanet, University of Texas El Paso, US

'Austrian economics is steeped in history. But what of its future? To find out, A Research Agenda for Austrian Economics taps some of the tradition's most prolific young scholars. Their chapters leave no doubt that the future of Austrian economics is bright. And Louis Rouanet's opening address to fellow Austrians is magnificent.'

Unintended Consequences and the Social Sciences

An Intellectual History

Lorenzo Infantino, LUISS Guido Carli, Rome, Italy

'A learned journey through the challenges of understanding unintended consequences in European thought. From antiquity to modernity, unintended consequences have been morphed into intentions of either magical forces, deities, or some form of supreme rationality. Infantino eruditely walks us through how we eventually arrived at a genuine understanding of unintentionality.'

Frontiers in European Entrepreneurship Research

Edited by Mirela Xheneti, University of Sussex Business School, UK, Silvia Costa, University of Groningen, the Netherlands, Jarna Heinonen, University of Turku, Finland and Agnieszka Kurczewska, University of Lodz, Poland

'This is a wonderful book on how entrepreneurship is embedded in and across different contexts. The editors have assembled a great group of contributors who explore the multiple facets of contextual embeddedness, highlighting the role of places, institutions and digitization. The breadth of topics together with the manifold methodologies applied are an extra benefit of the anthology. Recommended reading for students of entrepreneurship!'

The Political Economy of Iraq

Restoring Balance in a Post-Conflict Society

2nd edition

Frank R. Gunter, Professor of Economics, Lehigh University, US, Advisory Council Member, Iraq Britain Business Council and Colonel, U.S. Marines (Retired)

'This most thoughtful treatise is another example of Frank Gunter's intellectual discipline and fine analytical mind, writing on Iraq, a country he has studied for many years. He combines objective and informed narrative with a comprehensive understanding of the challenges facing the country, but underlying the whole work is a care and concern for the future wellbeing of the country, one which he and I both respect and honour.'

Decisions, Preferences, and Heuristics

An Introduction to Economic Psychology and Behavioral Economics

Pere Mir-Artigues, University of Lleida, Spain

'Decisions, Preferences, and Heuristics provides a timely update of the relation between psychology and economics: It introduces a fresh vision that takes the evolved mind seriously rather than as a source of violations of utility models, and presents heuristics as smart tools for decision-making in the real world, where optimization is mostly a fiction. In this fascinating book, Pere Mir-Artigues shifts the discourse of microeconomic theory closer to the reality of actual decision-making.'

Research Handbook on City and Municipal Finance

Edited by Craig L. Johnson, Indiana University, Bloomington, Temirlan T. Moldogaziev, The Pennsylvania State University and Justin M. Ross, Indiana University, Bloomington, US

'This book is a very engaging and informative compilation of research in municipal finance topics. It will serve as a good reference for young scholars just embarking on a research career, as well as more experienced researchers and practitioners looking for summaries of the more important research on a topic. I especially enjoyed the inclusion of relatively new areas of research such as the effects of COVID-19 on fiscal health, the role of cybersecurity in financial risk, and the role of public health spending. I thoroughly enjoyed reading the book and will use it as a reference for years to come.'

Handbook of Accounting, Accountability and Governance

Edited by Garry Carnegie, RMIT University, Australia and Christopher Napier, Royal Holloway, University of London, UK

'This compelling collection of chapters explores the triad of accounting, accountability and governance in all its variety – its history, practice, context and direction. Editors, Garry Carnegie and Christopher Napier, have assembled a group of leading scholars who provide many rich and diverse perspectives. At a time when the ability of democracy to "hold power to account" appears fragile, this Handbook provides an essential, perhaps urgent, resource and a gateway for scholars and policy makers alike.'

The Supermultiplier

A Cornerstone of the New Macroeconomics

Óscar Dejuán, University of Castilla-La Mancha, Spain

'The Supermultiplier is a wonderful and much-needed book. It is wonderful because it is thoughtful, scholarly and well-written and it is much-needed because it takes the ideas, theories and models of the Post-Keynesian movement in today's economics and develops their implications for policy and social development, centring the analysis on the idea of the supermultiplier. The result is an excellent piece of economic writing: highly readable, yet deeply thoughtful.'

The Debt Crisis of the 1980s

Law and Political Economy

Jérôme Sgard, Sciences Po, Paris, France

'This exquisitely timed and important book returns a twice-lost decade to its rightful place in sovereign debt theory and practice. An urge to forget for some combined with endless casual mentions to drain the 1980s of color and meaning in contemporary imagination. In place of generic cutouts of systemic crisis, deadweight loss, oppression, and financial alchemy, Jérôme Sgard offers an original account of institutional ferment, creative agency, and fraught politics at the root of international financial architecture.'
