Research Handbook on Health, AI and the Law

Edited by Barry Solaiman, Hamad Bin Khalifa University and Weill Cornell Medicine, Qatar and I. Glenn Cohen, Harvard University, US

'From drug discovery to personalised medicine, or merely easing the administrative load of overstretched medical professionals, artificial intelligence can make healthcare more effective and efficient. Yet the ethical and legal perils of "automated medicine" are easily seen. This Research Handbook surveys the diversity of practices, ethical frameworks, and emergent laws in this space. It will be of interest to practitioners and scholars, as well as anyone seeking to understand how AI can reshape a profession and its norms.'

Dictionary of Privacy, Data Protection and Information Security

Mark Elliot, University of Manchester, UK, Anna Maria Mandalari, University College London, UK, Miranda Mourby, University of Oxford, UK and Kieron O'Hara, University of Southampton, UK

'The prize for top class analysis of linked administrative data is huge. But it is critical that such data are held safely and used ethically. This can be hugely enhanced by the use of privacy enhancing methods. This Dictionary, compiled by some of the leading figures in the field, is an important source for identifying the best strategy. I am delighted to endorse it.'

Commercial Agreements

Principles and Practice

Jeremy Leong, Acton Law LLC, Singapore

'Jeremy Leong's work on commercial agreements will be a really valuable reference text for practitioners, whether draftspersons or litigators, and whatever their level of experience. Mr Leong draws upon his academic and extensive practical experience to provide original insights into the construction and operation of commercial agreements. Written in a refreshingly engaging style, the work is extensive in its scope, encompassing general matters (such as principles of construction, structure and boilerplate clauses) followed by a comprehensive analysis of a wide range of specific contracts. The work makes an original and substantial contribution to knowledge and learning in this area.'

Beyond Bilateralism

A Theory of State Responsibility for Breaches of Non-bilateral Obligations

Sarah Thin, Radboud University, Nijmegen, the Netherlands

'Sarah Thin's book provides an excellent contribution to putting on good theoretical ground the topic of non-bilateral responsibility. She does so by developing a theory of non-bilateral responsibility, testing it against the law on international responsibility and the practice of international courts and tribunals, and exploring the implications for the international legal system. The potential impact of her research for the broader field of the law of international responsibility could be quite significant.'

Judicially Crafted Property Rights in Valuable Intangibles

An Analysis of the INS Doctrine

Apostolos G. Chronopoulos, Queen Mary University of London, UK

'The misappropriation doctrine spawned by INS v. AP has generated enough controversy to become tortuously knotty. Chronopoulos's patient analytical skill works wonders of untangling and makes a persuasive case for a measured reinvigoration. This book is essential reading for anyone interested in sorting through the interplay of legislation, federalism, and interstitial common law in intellectual property.'

Kritika: Essays on Intellectual Property

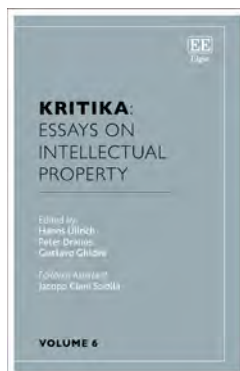

Volume 6

Edited by Hanns Ullrich, Max Planck Institute for Innovation and Competition, Germany, Peter Drahos, European University Institute, Italy and Australian National University, Australia and Gustavo Ghidini, University of Milan and LUISS University, Italy,

The fields of intellectual property have broadened and deepened in so many ways that commentators struggle to keep up with the ceaseless rush of developments and hot topics. Kritika: Essays on Intellectual Property is a series that is designed to help authors escape this rush. It creates a forum for authors who wish to more deeply question, investigate and reflect upon the evolving themes and principles of the discipline.

Injunctions in Private Law

David Capper, Queen's University Belfast, UK

'David Capper has drawn from his considerable breadth of knowledge on injunctions and damages in lieu of injunctions to write a book that is both comprehensive and accessible. His text is an important contribution to our understanding, and fills a gap in contemporary scholarship written for judges, lawyers and academics needing to know the current state of the law on injunctions in private law.'

Research Handbook of Metaverse and Law

Edited by Larry A. DiMatteo, University of Florida, US and Michel Cannarsa, Lyon Catholic University, France

'To write a real book about virtual worlds is audacious. To write on virtual worlds, such as the metaverse, before it really exists fully, might seem forgetful of reality. To be ready for the deployment of the metaverse (presented as a network of contracts), actors of many fields need to prepare and adapt to these new challenges. The authors give to the community the full picture of the legal challenges and potential solutions, meeting the expectations of everyone interested. This Research Handbook is not about the future or the virtual, it is about preparing today, in reality, what might well happen in virtual worlds in a couple of years from now. This Research Handbook is the perfect tool to answer many of these challenges, in a thoughtful and effective way.'

FRANDGerman Case Law and Global Perspectives

Edited by Peter Georg Picht, University of Zurich, Switzerland, Thomas F. Cotter, University of Minnesota Law School, US and Erik Habich, University of Zurich and Swiss National Science Foundation, Switzerland

'This book will be a valuable addition to the literature on the licensing and litigation of standards-essential patents on both sides of the Atlantic. Its detailed attention to German FRAND jurisprudence fills a major gap for North American practitioners and scholars, and its comparative approach will likewise help European advocates, judges and scholars to appreciate the different approaches taken to these issues in the United States. This volume is an essential resource for those interested in the evolving international FRAND litigation landscape.'

International Arbitration and EU LawSecond Edition

Edited by Nikos Lavranos, Leiden University, the Netherlands and Vienna University, Austria and European Federation for Investment Law and Arbitration (EFILA), NL- Investmentconsulting, Wöss & Partners and Stefano Castagna, Vienna University of Economics and Business, Austria

'The intersection between EU law and international arbitration continues to raise interesting questions, which justify the necessity of having an exceptional book, like this one, to address the intricacies of this topic. Investment arbitration, in particular, has experienced, in the past years, complex questions of supremacy of EU law, the emergence of anti-suit injunctions in preventing intra-EU ISDS, in addition to the imminent creation of an EU-led Multilateral Investment Court. Nikos Lavranos and Stefano Castagna are capturing, in this second edition of the book, comprehensive analysis of these issues, essential for any practitioner in international arbitration.'

Design LawGlobal Law and Practice

Edited by Dana Beldiman, Bucerius Law School, Germany, University of California Law San Francisco and Squire Patton Boggus LLP, San Francisco, US

'Design protection is a vast, chaotic, and puzzling area of law. It is also captivating as fundamental questions lurk here. What aspects of design are protected, how, and for what innovation policy objective? As a result, the law's existing flexibility enables strategic maneuvering. In Design Law: Global Law and Practice, recognized expert in international and comparative intellectual property Dana Beldiman has carefully curated a set of tight essays that examine comparative and international design protection law as well as the cutting-edge issues that these laws must grapple with. The breadth of the topics combined with the depth of analysis makes this an invaluable resource I will turn to again and again. But, as is true with a successful design, the volume as a whole is greater than the sum of its parts. Trends in the law emerge and the comparative project offers us critical insights for addressing the law's inherent conundrums.'

Comparative Law

Introduction to a Critical Practice

Fernanda G. Nicola, American University, US and Günter Frankenberg, Goethe University Frankfurt am Main, Germany

'This is a one of a kind book in comparative law. It brings together the best of the field – problems, facts, functions, critique, politics, context, and borrowings. No esoteric discussions about method or random foreign law facts. It simply teaches how to practice comparative law and how to apply it to contemporary issues.'

EU Pensions Law

A Commentary and Practitioner's Guide

Edited by Philip Bennett, Durham University, UK and Hans van Meerten, University of Utrecht, the Netherlands

'For those who would like to know more about the IORP II Directive and its operation, this is an interesting book. Certainly the relationship with UK law is plainly fascinating and this even after Brexit. Moreover, the authors make a very interesting and readable comparison between the first IORP directive and the second IORP directive. The reader gets a historical legal insight into the evolution between the two directives.'

The Elgar Companion to the Law and Practice of the International Maritime Organization

Edited by Laura Carballo Piñero, Universidade de Vigo, Spain and Maximo Q. Mejia Jr, World Maritime University, Sweden

'The Elgar Companion to the Law and Practice of the International Maritime Organization is a timely, balanced and statistically thorough work dealing with the ongoing efforts of the IMO to support the maritime community. In light of the recent developments affecting the maritime industry such as concerns over environmental degradation, potential blockages of major maritime arteries, insecurities that may be caused by various geopolitical issues and responses to pandemics, the IMO is not an uninvolved bystander but a major contributor to balancing international trade interests through various laws. The book through various exceptional authors provides a strong exposition, a technical analysis coupled with methods of application of the IMO models of modern regulatory systems. This book is a compelling read that must be part of every government department involved with policy and every law office involved with the maritime industry and the supply chain world. Most importantly the book must be included in maritime academic literature in libraries across the world for tools to build a sustainable, solutions focused, equitably inclusive, safe prosperous future the world over.'

Research Handbook on Judicial Politics

Edited by Michael P. Fix, Georgia State University and Matthew D. Montgomery, Texas Christian University, US

'Fix and Montgomery have accomplished what, so far, judicial scholars have not. They bring together a variety of scholars who analyze courts within and beyond the U.S. and who employ a variety of methodological approaches to help scholars and court watchers alike better understand judges, the judicial process, and judicial decision-making. Their efforts, and their team of writers, are highly impressive and should be commended for their addition to the field.'

The EU Reexamined

A Governance Model in Transition

Edited by Jörn Axel Kämmerer, Bucerius Law School, Hamburg, Hans-Bernd Schäfer, Bucerius Law School Hamburg, and University of Hamburg, Germany and Kaushik Basu, Cornell University and SC Johnson College of Business, Ithaca, New York, and former Chief Economist of the World Bank, Washington, D.C., US

Adopting an interdisciplinary approach, this book examines the experience of the European Union in bringing multiple sovereign nations under a common economic umbrella, and goes on to ask if the EU can serve as a blueprint for other regions that are striving for economic integration or if it is 'too unique' to be emulated. To this end, the book draws on contemporary and historical law and politics as well as economic analyses.

The Elgar Companion to Capital Punishment and Society

Edited by Benjamin Fleury-Steiner, University of Delaware and Austin Sarat, Amherst College, US

'This comprehensive resource is an ambitious effort to describe the many complexities of the death penalty, the questions it provokes, and the people it affects. There are no easy answers here, but the authors provide context and scholarship that skillfully inform the debate. This is a valuable compendium for students and teachers who are interested in understanding why the oldest and most severe form of punishment continues to find popular support and use in modern day.'
