GEOGRAPHY, CITIES & TOURISM NEW TITLES, OCT – DEC 2024

Fragmenting Cities

The State, Territorial Stigmatization and Urban Marginality

Troels Schultz Larsen and Kristian Nagel Delica, Roskilde University, Denmark

'Fragmenting Cities is a bold and original contribution to the political sociology of urban marginality inspired by Pierre Bourdieu and grounded in a deep historical case study of the making and unmaking of the so-called "ghettos" of Denmark. It is packed with sharp observations, smart theorizing and lucid policy elaborations reaching far beyond its national borders: in short, a must-read for serious students of the neoliberal metropolis.'

Handbook of Gender and Mobilities

Edited by Valerie Preston, York University, Canada, Sara McLafferty, University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign, US, Monika Maciejewska, Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, Spain, Brenda Yeoh, National University of Singapore

'This book is an important contribution to literature that interrogates diverse aspects of gender and mobility. The wide range of authors brilliantly untangle the complex web of mobility (and immobility) in everyday life and across the life course. The empirically rich and innovative theoretical work in this edited collection will engage readers in critical feminist analyses of the gendered dimensions of accessibility and mobility in society.'

How to Foster Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Justice in Geography

Theory, Praxis, and Shaping our Future

Edited by Guo Chen, Michigan State University and LaToya E. Eaves, University of Tennessee, US

'At last, a genre setting book for geographers that engages critically with the broad inclusivity framework of diversity, equity, inclusion and justice. Drawing globally on diverse voices and experiences, the book not only makes the case for DEIJ, but importantly how we can make it more inclusive through teaching, research, mentoring, and outreach, while also outlining possibilities for what is next to come. It will be essential reading for those with a commitment to change within our discipline.'

Beyond Innovation Hotspots

Clusters for Competitiveness and Transformation in Real Regions

Edited by Matthias Kiese, Ruhr University Bochum, Rasmus C. Beck, Duisburg Business and Innovation, Dirk Fornahl, Friedrich Schiller University Jena, Germany and Christian Ketels, Stockholm School of Economics, Sweden

'An insightful exploration of industrial clusters, this book provides an overview of the current reality of clusters from both a theoretical and, most importantly, an empirical perspective, focusing on specific industries and regions. Essential for academics, policymakers, and entrepreneurs, it illuminates the strategies behind successful clusters and their impact on economic growth.'

Regions, Cities and the Circular Economy

Theory and Practice

Edited by Sébastien Bourdin, EM Normandie Business School and Chairholder of the European Chair of Excellence "Circular Economy and Territories", André Torre, University of Paris-Saclay, INRAE, France and Eveline van Leeuwen, Wageningen University and Amsterdam Institute for Advanced Metropolitan Solutions, the Netherlands

'According to the United Nations, by 2050, 70 percent of the world's population is likely to live in urban areas. Cities are currently responsible for 75 percent of natural resource consumption, 50 percent of global waste, and 70 percent of CO2 emissions. To promote more sustainable urban development, new economic models need to be implemented. This book therefore has the merit of shedding light on the role that a circular economy model can play in the transition of cities and territorial entities to more sustainable trajectories.'

Qualitative Comparative Analysis

Learning from Cases

Roel Rutten, Tilburg University and European Regional Affairs Consultants (ERAC), the Netherlands

'Qualitative Comparative Analysis: Learning from Cases offers a comprehensive introduction to qualitative comparative analysis (QCA), emphasizing the proper grounding of the approach in the interplay of case knowledge, context, and concepts. Roel Rutten utilizes key insights from Critical Realism to rebalance QCA, which he argues has become too slanted toward large-N cross-case analysis and fuzzy sets, to the exclusion of case and substantive knowledge. While not everyone will agree with Rutten, all can learn from his challenges to current QCA practices.'

Handbook of Case Study Research in the Social Sciences

Edited by Peter Rule, Stellenbosch University and Vaughn M. John, University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa

'Case study research is ubiquitous in the field of adult and continuing education. The editors did a great service to the field through their book, Your Guide to Case Study Research (2011). This Handbook takes understandings of case study research to a new level by expanding and deepening engagement with case study research across disciplines and fields. This is a welcome addition to the literature and will, like their previous book, become an indispensable reference for case study researchers globally.'
