Handbook of Research on Entrepreneurship and Conflict

Edited by Wim Naudé, RWTH Aachen University, Aachen, Germany and Bernadette Power, University College Cork, Ireland

'In an era rife with conflict throughout every level of society, this pathbreaking Handbook paves important new ground in analyzing how entrepreneurship can be both a positive response but also a concerning trigger for conflict. This Handbook draws on a broad-spectrum of expert authors spanning a diverse range of backgrounds and scholarly fields to shed new light on the links between entrepreneurship and conflict. This is a must read not just for entrepreneurship scholarship but for all of the social sciences and thought leaders concerned with the stability and sustainability of democratic society.'

Dictionary of Privacy, Data Protection and Information Security

Mark Elliot, University of Manchester, UK, Anna Maria Mandalari, University College London, UK, Miranda Mourby, University of Oxford, UK and Kieron O'Hara, University of Southampton, UK

'The prize for top class analysis of linked administrative data is huge. But it is critical that such data are held safely and used ethically. This can be hugely enhanced by the use of privacy enhancing methods. This Dictionary, compiled by some of the leading figures in the field, is an important source for identifying the best strategy. I am delighted to endorse it.'

TEXTBOOK Advanced Introduction to Sustainability Transitions

Frank W. Geels, University of Manchester, UK

'Given the wicked environmental problems facing modern society, from ocean acidification and water insecurity to species extinction and climate change, there may be no better time to grapple with the topic of sustainability transitions. I've long considered Professor Geels the Guru of Sociotechnical Transitions Theory, and in this masterpiece, he doesn't disappoint. The book's topics are as complex as they are compelling, including a novel and original synthetic framework and crosscutting themes such as agency and actors, acceleration and geopolitics. It's a highly readable, concise, and clever amalgamation of hundreds of academic studies and thirty years of work.'

The Labour Market Myth

How the Market Metaphor Hinders our Understanding of Work

Paul de Beer, University of Amsterdam, the Netherlands

In this incisive book, Paul de Beer interrogates the concept of the labour market and its theoretical shortcomings in treating labour as a commodity. He argues that to offer people a real chance of a satisfactory work life, the idea of the labour market must be replaced with a focus on long-term employment relationships.

AVAILABLE IN PAPERBACK Decisions, Preferences, and Heuristics

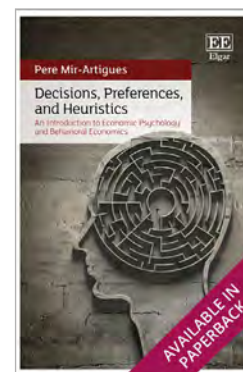

An Introduction to Economic Psychology and Behavioral Economics

Pere Mir-Artigues, University of Lleida, Spain

'Decisions, Preferences, and Heuristics provides a timely update of the relation between psychology and economics: It introduces a fresh vision that takes the evolved mind seriously rather than as a source of violations of utility models, and presents heuristics as smart tools for decision-making in the real world, where optimization is mostly a fiction. In this fascinating book, Pere Mir-Artigues shifts the discourse of microeconomic theory closer to the reality of actual decision-making.'

Framing the Economy of the Future

Six Socio-Economic Trends for Sustainability, Circularity and Inclusivity

Edited by Niels Faber, University of Groningen and University of Applied Sciences and Sjors Witjes, Radboud University Nijmegen, the Netherlands

This book explores fundamental socio-economic trends that are radically changing perspectives on the relationship between people and the world around them. Focusing on the principles of sustainability, circularity and inclusivity, it illustrates how these trends form the breeding ground for a new economy embodying a logic of collectiveness.

Handbook of Interdisciplinary Teaching and Administration

Edited by Rick Szostak, University of Alberta, Canada

'Interdisciplinary teaching and learning is becoming an increasingly important and crucial component of academia because it helps the next generation in addressing the complex problems of our times. Yet since universities and programs are largely organized along disciplinary boundaries, interdisciplinarity presents teachers and administrators with multiple challenges – challenges that also tend to differ from context to context. This unique and comprehensive collection addresses a wide range of topics, providing insights and examples from seasoned experts with different backgrounds and nationalities. As such it will be a helpful resource for anyone engaging with interdisciplinary teaching and learning, and their administration.'
